

Spreading the message of hope

While helping sick children

Jackie Roberts is an enthusiastic supporter of Meagan's Walk, a community-based organization that raises awareness and funds for research at The Hospital For SickKids into paediatric brain tumours – the leading cause of cancer-related death in young people under 20.

“Participating in the walk was something that I just had to do,” says Jackie, an Administrative Assistant at Toronto’s MacMillan Yard who joined CN in 2006.

Since taking part in the Walk in 2010, Jackie has raised more than $22,000, and raised another $13,600 during this year’s five-kilometre (3.1 miles) event that took place May 11, 2013.

“This is my third grant from CN, and I’m thrilled that the company has been so supportive.”